SUNSHINE AFTER STORM

LAST WORD

MR. VOTER:

I have not thought this was merely my personal light.

I have been saving your city as well as mine for four long years of Fitzgeraldism, Curleyism, Lomasneyism, Timiltyism and Gibblinism.

For many years these men have been perfecting an organization on lines of graft or greed to control your city.

In three short weeks of active campaigning I have felt it was my duty to use every honest and effective means in my power to give each honest thinking voter an opportunity to understand the real issues and to reach his own conclusions.

Fitzgerald, Lomasney, Curley, Timilty, Giblin and all their satellites and followers have protested against the public glare thrown on them in the newspapers.

The word has gone forth that their last hope to win their way back to City Hall to handle one hundred million dollars of the people's money is the cry that I am spending large sums of money in this campaign.

It is true I am spending a large sum of money, but it is for legitimate expenses and to show up these men.

Besides, it is my own, not contributed by men hoping to deal with the city, or public service corporations.

When the campaign is over the bill will be mine and paid by me, and for every cent I have spent the city will save 100 cents.

Remember, I have not promised and cannot promise a single city position or permit a single corporation or contractor to feel they will have a grateful Mayor.

Remember the $1,473,633.54 of contracts "given" by John F. Fitzgerald, instead of advertised, and all the promises of places.

Do you want me to fight these weapons of John F. Fitzgerald by publicity—publicity—the sword of power, or do you want me, as John F. Fitzgerald desires, to fight your fight against this gang of political marauders with the leaden blade of good intentions?

It might be well, Mr. Voter, to ask yourself how much money John F. Fitzgerald is spending in this campaign? It is a large sum. And how much John F. Fitzgerald spent in his campaign against Edward J. Donovan at the primaries, and in his campaign against Louis A. Frothingham, and his campaign against George A. Hibbard and all the other minor campaigns where he was not concerned, but with which he has interfered during the last 5 years, and whether all the money he has thus spent came from the legitimate profits of a weekly periodical having a reported circulation of but 2,300?

In this campaign I have tried to stick absolutely to the truth, to deceive no man and not to appeal to a single mean or unworthy motive and to make the fight absolutely in the open without resort to underground methods.

If I have fought fairly—if I have shown that the content which sticks together John F. Fitzgerald, Martin Lomasney, James M. Curley, James P. Timilty, Thomas Giblin and the lesser foremen of their gangs bodes no good to Boston and means not merely waste of money but loss of schoolhouses, streets, playgrounds and other things we need, as well as throwing away our chances for a cleaner, better, more prosperous city, then I am satisfied.

If you elect me Mayor I may make mistakes. I shall be loyal to Boston and to my level best.

The test of my administration will be loyalty to the city and all the people in it—the weak as well as the strong—the women and children as well as the men.

ASQUITH AND HIS CABINET QUIT OFFICE

LONDON, Jan. 10.—In meeting with his party council, King Edward today signed the proclamation dissolving Parliament at the same time the business of writing for the general election was begun. This action left the equally surprised a ministry the Asquith Cabinet retiring according to custom. Next month after the election to his successor he chosen.

The Commons will complete their campaign this week, the news now being hurried by precedent from further election. The wind-up will be the last at least seen in England since 1832. This is made evident by the fact that a candidate for the seat of A. J. Balfour, member of the Commons, was expected to have an opponent.

The first balloting will be held on Saturday, January 15, when half-eighty-one constituencies will go to the polls and the voting will not be over for two weeks. The new Parliament will meet February 2.

The state now closing will show its history as a sign of things. If not really changed, the contest will show things largely along the lines of American campaign, women taking a leading part, and some of the issues will be the same as in each party. The issues interests, hard hit by the budget which the Liberal government has taken a prominent part, throwing all the influence and influence to support the Liberal. These issues have been a subject of contention for the last several years, and the Liberal government has been a subject of contention for the last several years.

With every one of the 1,350 candidates, the Liberal government has been a subject of contention for the last several years, and the Liberal government has been a subject of contention for the last several years.

The Liberal government has been a subject of contention for the last several years, and the Liberal government has been a subject of contention for the last several years.

SCHOONER IN MINUS SAILS

The British schooner Success, Captain E. J. Innes, made this port today for a recent season's duty of coasting heretofore during her trip from Turkey to the Red Sea. Next morning she will be started from England during the trip and will be in her hands from the effects of her terrible action during the elements. Twelve days on the coast her every sail, and the same time the water had against the craft have divided the contents of the cargo into two parts. The cargo was lost by the captain and crew from the masts to a square northeast from the coast.

On December 23 Joseph Spencer, the crew, and the schooner, the Success, was seen in the Gulf of Aden. The schooner was seen in the Gulf of Aden. The schooner was seen in the Gulf of Aden. The schooner was seen in the Gulf of Aden.

STRAIGHT DOPE

QUAKERS TO PAY CLARKE WANTS
DOOIN $6,500 TO SEE PLATE

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 10.—It has been discovered that the diamond at Forbes Field is not right and as soon as the snow is off the ground men will be put to work cutting down the centre of the diamond so that the outfielders can see the home plate. Manager Clarke has written that neither he nor Tommy Leach were able to see the home plate last season and both want to look at it this year. This cutting down the high infield, it is thought, will help batting for both teams.

And the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette says it will take a hard-knocking player like there liable fall to be some trouble. Milt Pappas declined the terms offered by the team and it is assumed that others are following the same mood. But three of the stars—Jim Gibson, Tom Seaver and Steve Carlton—will remain.

that Mortie was down town Saturday night and sent a chauffeur out to look for him. Moore was taken to the resort where, on police allege, a drug was given him. After a long rest, according to the report, Moore awoke and complained that he could not be revived, so a doctor was summoned. Hypodermic injections of morphine are said to have been given the millionaire. Then it is said Mr. Moore was taken to bed where he is believed to have been kept until the influence of the drug wore off. "Nat" Moore was raised in a luxury.  "Tristan and Isolde" was composed by Wagner in 1865 after he had written two of the music dramas which comprise the "Ring." It is generally admitted that the score is wonderfully beautiful, although the story is rather unexciting.
 The daughter of the King of Ireland, by a strange marriage by Markie, King of Cornwall, and Tristan, his nephew, has been sent to Ireland to escort the prince to England.

Tristan had been wounded in the fight and Isolde had come upon him and tended his wounds. To conceal his identity he had assumed the name of the knight of the Red and White.

Isolde recognized him by a notch in his sword which corresponded with a suliner which she had found imbedded in Merold's head.

Love Conquers Hate.

At first she decided to slay the murderer, but as she lifted the sword she found that love conquered hate and she permitted him to go free.

When he returned an ambassador of his uncle she was indignant that he, who had won her heart, should seek help for another. The king, however, was so much in love with her that he consented to the marriage.

JEWELERS MUST WORK 56 HOURS

ATTLEBORO, Jan. 10.—At the solicitation of some of the manufacturing jewelers, Representative Samuel M. Helman secured from Attorney-General Malone a ruling relative to the application of the fifty-six hour law in their case. The attorney-general informs Representative Helman that in his opinion jewelry is not a product manufactured in seasons and consequently is not a manufacture of Attleborough will not be allowed to work women or minors more than fifty-six hours in any one week in the year. The new law went into effect January 1, and the manufacturers in both Attleborough, who employ thousands of women and minors,

SEAMAN'S LEG IS BROKEN BY WAVE

First officer James Trickey of the Leland liner Bostonian, was hurried to the City Hospital after the docking of the vessel at the Eastern Railroad pier, East Boston.

Trickey, during a gale at sea, was knocked from the bridge of the Bostonian by a monster wave. As a result of his fall his left leg was broken and internal injuries were received.

The liner was en route from Manchester, N. H., to New York, when the gale was encountered. The officer was prevented from being washed overboard by a second big wave which brought the timely arrival of other officers.

And melting 'neath its glowing kiss,
From eastern skies of roseate splendor
The sun is smiling down to earth,
Here all of life with glad surrender
Is waking to a song of mirth.

Joy is in the sunshine,	Joy is in the meadows,
Gladness in the trees,	Songs are in the trees,
Ory in the skies of blue;	Nectar in the sparkling dew;
Incense from the flowers	Incense from the flowers
Gives fragrance to the breeze,	Give fragrance to the breeze,
	And love is in my heart for you.

HE SAVES SOME SALT, ANYWAY

WHERE ARE YOU GOING WITH THAT SALT?

WHY, I THOUGHT I'D SPRINKLE IT ON THE SIDEWALK, — IT'S SO SLIPPERY!

YOU'LL DO NO SUCH THING! SALT'S 5¢ A BAG!

THAT'S ALL RIGHT! ASHES DON'T COST ANYTHING!

WELL, WE'LL HAVE TO PUT SOME ASHES ON THE WALK!

HOLD ON! I HAVEN'T SIFTED THOSE ASHES YET!

HEAVENS! POOR MR. GROUCHO'S JUST FALLEN ON OUR SIDE-WALK!

YOU MISERABLE SKINFINT! I NEARLY BROKE MY NECK! I'LL SUE YOU FOR A THOUSAND DOLLARS!

OOD MORNING, sweetly, I send you
 And love in my heart for you.
 Dear friend, make haste to share the joy
 Of singing birds and bee and flower
 Love fan would make so full a power
 Of sweetest things, your beauty, life and power
 And I, ere yet the day unclose,
 Or brighter glow the morning ayes,
 From glowing lips would steal the roses
 Joy is to be consumed in your eyes,
 Joy is in the meadow,
 Songs are in the trees,
 Nectar is the apple of the dew;
 Pleasure from the flowers,
 Give fragrance to the breeze,
 And love is in my heart for you.
